Warehouse Is Coming Down

The oldest part of the Tye Rubber Co. warehouse will be torn down this summer, leaving the newer portion for retail and light assembly operations.

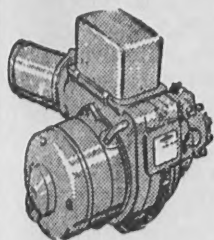

C. Lincoln Giles, who took title to the property this week, plans to start dismantling the old section of the structure within a matter of weeks.

When completed, and with the foundation filled, there will be ample access to about 1 1/2 acres of parking area in the rear.

Giles said a furniture store is planning to occupy space in the renovated structure, and there will be room for light assembly work in the three-story structure. He pointed out that there is parking area behind the building, but that this has been shut off from public view, giving rise to the impression that none exists.

The part of the structure to be torn down is the section nearest to Lewis st.

Tempers Flared Over New School Position

DOWNES APPOINTED AS DEPUTY FIRE CHIEF

Fire Lt. William T. Downes, 147 Elm st., has been appointed acting deputy chief, effective June 2, when the 48-hour week begins.

Named as acting lieutenants were Harold F. Hayes, 2 Temple pl. and William G. Coutts, 34 High st.

Downes joined the department in 1955 and became lieutenant in 1959, with a civil service mark of 90.50 for that promotion examination. Hayes joined the department in 1959; Coutts has been a firefighter for approximately 20 years.

Town Manager Thomas E. Duff announced the appointments, all of which will continue until promotional exams are held and civil service lists are available.

School Committee tempers flared Monday night, when members vigorously disagreed over creation of a new job.

At stake in the discussion is a "supervisor of general services" - a position first approved by a majority of the Committee last November.

School Committee member William A. Doherty, in no uncertain terms, told member John S. Sullivan "This is a pet little hobby of your own you're trying to put through here". But his remarks were obviously meant for Mrs. Barbara Moody and Chairman Milton J. Meyers as well. All three had indicated approval of the new position, with increased responsibilities over the job described a few months ago.

Member Vincent P. Davey, who has opposed the new job all along, continued to support the appointment of a head custodian, replacing retired Fred Collins. Mr. Doherty had also opposed the new position.

Supt. Edward I. Erickson, who last November agreed to the need for such a job, was adamant in his opposition to the post now, with the addition of many of his own duties. He saw the new definition of the job as a criticism of his own work, because it placed so many of his duties on someone else's shoulders. And he remarked "We provide a good education at a moderate cost", and noted at

Year-End Session of DAR Chapter

The last meeting of the season of the Priscilla Abbot Chapter, D.A.R., took place at the home of a former regent, Mrs. Frank Hayes, in Hampton, N.H., and the members and guests were welcomed by the hostess.

A committee consisting of Mrs. M. Jones, Mrs. John Kenyon and Mrs. George Cobb served refreshments, and a birthday cake commemorating the 15th anniversary of the organization of the chapter was cut by Mrs. Roland Weeks, the second regent, and an organizing member.

Mrs. Edwin Otto called the meeting to order, and routine business followed. Devotions and patriotic exercises were followed by monthly and yearly reports of the various officers. Mrs. Edward Thompson read the secretary's reports, Mrs. William Trow the treasurer's, and Mrs. Joseph Smethurst read the registrar's report for the year.

A memorial service for the deceased members of the Chapter, Mrs. Vasco Nunez having passed away during the year, was read by the chaplain, Mrs. Ernest Edmonds. Mrs. Edwin Lewis gave the most interesting Flag report, telling of the Flags of the United States which have been presented to Girl Scout and Brownie Troops during the past year, also to Camp Fire Girls. She ended with an essay about the Confederate Flag, which after the Civil War had its colors again combined with the Union Flag to exemplify the fact that the United States was still one and not divided.

Mrs. Edward Thompson spoke about the children's tours to Boston, which the Chapter sponsors, and also told of the growth of the new Children of the American Revolution Society which has been formed here. It is now the largest in the state.

Mrs. Roland Weeks gave the historian's report, speaking especially of the plaque which was put on the Nicholas Holt house at the April meeting. Mrs. Otto spoke of her trip to Washington to the Continental Congress in April, and especially stressed the subject of resolutions made at that time and the need to obtain individual opinions on them. The theme of this year's Congress is "Be strong and of a good courage."

Mrs. Edwin Lewis gave the nominating committee's report, and the following officers were elected and afterwards installed by the chaplain, Mrs. Edmonds: chaplain, Mrs. Edwin Lewis; recording secretary, Mrs. Earl Thornton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edward Thompson; treasurer, Mrs. William Trow; registrar and librarian, Mrs. John Kenyon; historian, Mrs. Joseph Smethurst.

As no regent or vice regent have been nominated, the present officers will carry on until these offices are filled. An ex-regent's pin was presented to Mrs. Otto, who has completed her term office, the presentation being made by the vice regent, Mrs. Thompson.

Delegates to the fall conference which will be held in Springfield Oct. 2 and 3, are Mrs. John Kenyon and Mrs. Roland Weeks; alternates, Mrs. Edwin Otto, Mrs. Joseph Smethurst, Mrs. Edward Thompson and Mrs. Edwin Lewis.

The meeting adjourned until next October, when the new officers will take over.

52 MAIN ST. 475-5100"Cogswell" House Actually
Is Old Marland Mansion

By Winthrop Newman

In the Townsman of Jan. 24, there was a picture of one of Andover's old houses with the caption: "This house, according to Fred Cheever, is the Squire Francis Cogswell home on Shawshreen rd., directly opposite from Cuba st. A faint legend on the back of the photo, as nearly as it can be deciphered says, 'this was the home built by Mrs. Franklin Darracott's father.'"

Now Mrs. Franklin Darracott was Julia Marland (1823-1900), and she was the youngest child of Abraham Marland, one of Andover's greatest men, famous as one of the pioneers of the woolen textile industry in America. And one of the long forgotten facts of Andover history is that this old home was indeed his mansion house.

Red Head Came Here

Abraham Marland was born in Ashton Parish, Lancashire, England in 1772, and, after a very interesting life in that country, this ambitious young Englishman with his head full of ideas and crowned with red hair (something I have observed on a number of his descendants) embarked on the ship "Two Bibles" bound for America. His family was with him, and they arrived in Boston Sept. 17, 1801.

While living in England, Mr. Marland had learned the woolen manufacturing business in the mill of his uncle, John Lawton, so he at once sought out Samuel Slater of Pawtucket, R.I., a fellow countryman and a pioneer in the textile field. Receiving no encouragement from Mr. Slater, who advised him to go into farming, Mr. Marland went to Beverly and obtained employment with a Col. Burnham.

After two years in Beverly he moved to Lynnfield, where an August, 1803, he started a wool carding business. He also did some manufacturing of cotton into wick yarn. But the stream of water was unreliable and insufficient so Mr. Marland moved to Andover in 1807.

First Home Standing

The first home of the Marlands in Andover was on Brook st. and there Mr. Marland at once began, making cloth in a shed attached to the house, using a hand loom with a spring shuttle. As this was an innovation, people flocked to the place to watch the operation. This old house where the Marland family spent its first three years in Andover and where the Marland textile operations in Andover began, still stands; and known as 8 Brook st., it is the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Williams. Soon after arriving in Andover, Mr. Marland had a small factory operating in Abbott Village. So as to be nearer his business the family moved in 1810 to a structure called "the Mill House in Abbott Village".

Built New Home

It was in the year 1813 when Abraham Marland's native land and adopted country were at war with each other that the Marland family moved into the house people have so long called "the Old Cogswell Place" (Andover Advertiser, December 17, 1853). That was just 150 years ago this year. Abraham Marland had probably built the house during the previous two years, for he had bought the land of Abbot Walker April 17, 1811. It consisted of "two acres and fifty-two poles of land" and the price paid was $110.00 (Reg. of Deeds, Salem, Book 196, Leaf 292). Future acquisitions increased the place to about nine acres.

Marland Mills Started

In 1821 Mr. Marland rented of Peter C. Brooks a brick mill in what soon came to be called Marland Village. Equipped with machinery, it was soon a bustling textile factory. He purchased the property in 1828 for $22,000, and there on the banks of the Shawshreen River, the business, always known as Marland Mills, has continued to the present day. The old factory in Abbott Village he exchanged for "the Peter Shattuck House, opposite the family Mansion" (Andover Advertiser, December 17, 1853).

After a long life well spent, Abraham Marland died in 1849, possessed of a large fortune. His will stipulated that his wife should have the use of his mansion house for life. On the map of Andover prepared by Henry F. Walling and dated 1852, the house is clearly shown on the same location as the Cogswell home, and it is marked "Mrs. Marland".

Squire Cogswell Arrived

Now Squire Francis Cogswell was the husband of Mary S. Marland, another one of Abraham's numerous daughters. They moved to Andover from his native State of New Hampshire in 1810 and a year later he bought for home the beautiful old Daniel Phillips, Torr and Central st. This lovely old home still stands and is now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Brown. Abraham Marland's widow passed away in 1854 and a year later Squire Cogswell sold this Daniel Phillips home to Oliver Hazard Perry Esquire, son of the naval hero of the War of 1812. It was about the time that Squire Cogswell moved into Abraham Marland's house, the map of Andover Beers of Essex County, published in 1812, the house is clearly shown on the same location as Mrs. Marland's house, and it is marked "F. Cogswell".

In 1873, desiring to own a place outright, Squire Cogswell bought from seven of the heirs their issue all their interest "the real, personal or mixed in the estate of the late Abraham Marland" for the sum of $950.00 (Reg. of Deeds, Lawrence, Book 20, Pages 344 to 351 and Book 22, Pages 94 to 101). Had just one of these deeds been properly executed with good descriptions of the piece of real estate transferred and with the Marland titles to them shown by adequate references, then a single statement by me could establish the fact of the Cogswell place being Abraham Marland's old home. But such not being the case I shall now try to prove by points by indirection.

Next week, Mr. Newman will continue his story, showing how he reached the conclusion that the "Cogswell House" actually belonged originally to Abraham Marland.

Squire Cogswell Arrived

Now Squire Francis Cogswell was the husband of Mary Squire Marland, another one of Abraham's numerous daughters. The moved to Andover from his native State of New Hampshire in 1811 and a year later he bought the home the beautiful old Daniel P. Mansions in the triangle between Phillips, Torr and Central streets. This lovely old home still stands and is now the residence of Mrs. and Mrs. George G. Brown, Abraham Marland's widow passed away in 1854 and a year later Squire Cogswell sold this Daniel P. home to Oliver Hazard Perry Esquire, son of the naval hero of the War of 1812. It was about this time that Squire Cogswell moved into Abraham Marland's house, the map of Andover Beers of Essex County, published in 1816, the house is clearly shown on the same location as Mrs. Marland's house, and it is marked "F. Cogswell".

In 1873, desiring to own the place outright, Squire Cogswell bought from seven of the heirs their issue all their interest in the real, personal or mixed in the estate of the late Abraham Marland for the sum of $950 and 20, Pages 344 to 351 and Book 20, Pages 94 to 101. Is it true that CO-OP prices are High?

Once in a while, a CO-OP shopper will suspect that CO-OP prices are higher than those of our worthy competitors. Is this true or false?

Actually, it is both true and false. In a highly competitive business, carrying thousands of items, some with prices fluctuating almost daily, it is impossible for any store to be competitive on every item every day.

It is true that a few items in our store will be out of line at any given time. Frequently, this is because some other store is running specials on those items for a few days. Our own specials make our competitors' prices temporarily high. It works both ways.

But it is false to say that our prices are generally higher than the competition. We know this because we police our prices constantly. If you have any doubts regarding the general competitive price level at the CO-OP, ask us and we will be glad to show you the evidence.

The broad truth of the matter is that —

Dedicated Rooms in Center

Phillips Academy dedicated the William Thornton Kemper Room and the David Milton Underwood Room - two key elements of Andover's new Arts and Communications Center, Saturday, May 25.

This Center pulls together into one area a variety of activities involving the arts and communications. Included are new or enlarged facilities for drama, painting, sculpture, pottery, woodworking, three-dimensional design, architecture, and photography; and a unique audio-visual department.

The William Thornton Kemper Room has been given by Rufus Crosby Kemper Jr., Andover '45, of Kansas City, Mo., in memory of his grandfather, William Thornton Kemper. The senior Mr. Kemper was a banker and leading citizen of the Southwest for much of the first half of this century.

The Kemper Room is an auditorium with 225 fixed seats and flexible space in which another 60 seats can be placed. Carefully designed acoustically, it serves well for live performances by individual artists, instrumental groups, and vocal groups up to one hundred in number. It is used for recording purpose also. It is, particularly well suited for various audio-visual materials including slides, tape recordings, slide-tapes, and motion pictures. The Kemper Room is the central element of Andover's unique Audio-Visual Department, whose director, Gordon G. Bensley, will receive a Distinguished Secondary School Teaching Award from Harvard University June 12.

Rufus Crosby Kemper Jr. is president of the City National Bank & Trust Company of Kansas City, and last year he was the Republican nominee for U. S. Senator from Missouri. Present at the exercises were his wife and their three children, and also Mr. Kemper's mother.

Adjacent to the Kemper Room and the building lobby is the Underwood Room, the gift of David Milton Underwood '54 of Houston, Texas and New York City. This handsome room will serve as a focal point for the informal social activity of the school, and will be used daily by both faculty and students as well as on formal occasions such as receptions and dinners. Sited as a link between the Addison Gallery of American Art and the audio-visual department, the Underwood Room is well located to be a center of school life. Connected with the Underwood Room is a small kitchen to provide light food. Mr. Underwood is associated with Morgan Stanley & Co. in New York and with Underwood, Neuhaus & Co. of Houston. Attending the ceremonies with him were his parents Mr. and Mrs. Milton R. Underwood of Houston. Approximately 100 other invited guests attended these exercises, which marked the official opening of the Arts and Communications Center building. Many of them have served as advisors and consultants in developing the design of the Center, which has some 32,000 sq. ft. of space on two floors. Included among the guests were: Art Museum Director Charles H. Sawyer of the University of Michigan, architect and designer R. Buckminster Fuller, Dean John U. Monro of Harvard College, author Munro Leaf, and Time and Live executive Weston C. Pullen, Jr.

The architect for the building was The Architects Collaborative of Cambridge, partner in charge - Benjamin E. Thompson, The George A. Fuller Company of New York was the contractor.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

Everyone Must Cooperate

Last week we commented in this space on industrial growth in the town, and the necessity for full cooperation by all municipal boards and agencies, if this is to be accomplished.

We'd like to make the further comment that individuals in the community, particularly those owning land in the industrial zones, must take a realistic attitude towards industry.

It has been said, with some justice we believe, that most property owners value their industrial land as though it was developed and prepared for immediate use. And this is far from the truth.

Much of the industrial land in the town needs a great deal of work — utilities must be extended and roads developed, at the cost of considerable money, before buildings can go up and taxes assessed. Although industry itself may take part in this expenditure, as has been the case in some communities, the town through its voters must also be willing to spend some money. The property owners must, we believe, take realistic attitudes towards the value of the land — sky-high prices for undeveloped property tend to keep industry out, for the costs of development then become excessive.

Thus every resident of the town, but specially the officials and the land owners, must really want industrial growth, before it can become a reality.

Who Will Vote For Sin?

We don't see how the Legislature can do anything except vote requested funds for the Crime Commission.

To do otherwise would compare to voting against motherhood, and for sin.

Anyone who has an interest in corruption-free government should anxiously await the result of legislative action, because there is so much at stake. The Crime Commission indicates that there are many avenues to be explored; that corruption is possibly controlled by some hidden figures, who should be exposed.

There is not the slightest doubt but what the Commission can do a lot to uncover the corruption which appears to plague the state, if there are ample funds to do the job.

It's squarely up to the Legislature to provide the money; we can't see how the legislators can ignore the urgency, the necessity, for favorable action. To vote no on this proposal would be a dis-service to the residents of the state, and would leave grave doubts as to the wisdom of retaining those who do not wish the issue to be pursued.

Worthwhile Project

The American Field Service International Student Exchange program is a worthwhile activity, deserving of ample community support.

For there is no better way to develop understanding and friendships between nations, than to have individuals of these nations come live, study and play. Thus do they learn about us — not of the superficial, or the tourist-type personalities — but of the normal, week-to-week experiences that seem so common to us.

The folks who have fostered this plan here should be congratulated. They are doing all of us a service, by helping contribute to better understanding among people.

Down the Years with The Townsman

Marcus M. Hill of Providence, R. I., arrived here on a visit Tuesday evening.

William Poor has just finished a new butcher's wagon for the Valpey brothers; also a new milk wagon for M. C. Evans of Wakefield.

Last Thursday there were put up three additional street lamps which will be a great benefit to the community.

An attractive sign board, bearing the words "Baptist Church, Rev. J. V. Startton, pastor" and the hours of worship, has been placed on the front porch of the Church, and has a most inviting look.

50 Years Ago — May, 1913

Wallace Ward of this town is visiting in Nova Scotia.

Lester Towne of Tufts College spent the past weekend visiting at his home in the Scotland District. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cutler of Chicago are occupying the house on Abbot st., formerly the home of Percival Dove. They expect to reside here permanently.

Thought to have been the oldest horse in this part of the country, Dick, the brown pony owned for several years by George A. Higgins, died this week following an attack of heart trouble.

The Andover Tuberculosis Association has made an appropriation for a local anti-fly campaign.

Arthur Johnson of Wildwood rd. has gone to work in the chemistry department of the Pacific Mills, Lawrence.

The Hon. Theodore Roosevelt will be an honored guest at the Phillips commencement next week. His son, Archie, is in the graduating class.

The tax rate will not be officially set for a few weeks, but it appears that it may be below $30. At town meeting time, it was estimated that the rate would climb to $30.60, but additional figures have been received from the state showing a greater return to the town than anticipated.

The Selectmen have received a check for $442.85, which had been paid to a firm renting a grader to the town. The contract required the company to maintain the equipment, but then the repair bills had gone through anyway. Receipt of the check terminates a long-standing fight with the company.

The Board of Health has moved from its quarters on Park st., for which the town paid rent, into a remodelled check room on the second floor of the municipal building. Some $300 will be saved annually.

Francis E. Wilson was elected president of the Service Club last Tuesday night. The ladies night will be held at the Andover Inn, at which time president Richard Whipple will turn over the gavel to Mr. Wilson.

Commencement activities at Abbot Academy will open Friday and conclude Monday when four Andover girls will be among the 54 seniors receiving their diplomas.

Henry S. Hopper, comptroller at Phillips Academy, died Monday afternoon of a heart attack, while showing the Academy grounds to a visitor from Pakistan. He was also associate treasurer of the Academy, and one of the best-known men in town.

A street parade will be the main feature of the Memorial Day exercises Saturday, with all veterans organizations scheduled to take part.

James D. Doherty, for 19 years associated with the supervision of the playgrounds and director of this activity for the last two years, will take a leave of absence this year. George Snyder, assistant director, will probably take over the duties for the year.

A large class of nearly 200 boys and girls will be confirmed today, at St. Augustine's.

All of the town's policemen who took the exam for chief have passed. According to reports, David L. Nicoll had a mark of 99.84; James R. Lynch, 95.04; Frank Koza, 94.10 and Raymond F. Collins, 92.07.

1 Summer loans in effect in adult library.

5 Library shares in Open House for all municipal buildings. This week's display: Plan Your Vacation Now!

Andover Open House

The library is sharing in the Open House of municipal buildings, sponsored by the Town Employees' Association Wednesday, June 5, from 10-12 and 2-4 o'clock. All are most cordially invited to include the library in their tour of town departments which serve the people of Andover.

The library is offering a "behind the scenes" explanation of all processing of books and materials. For those who are unacquainted with the recently enlarged audio-visual department there is an invitation to look over the recordings, see the filmstrip and film projector equipment, obtain a listing of the materials which are on loan to Andover readers. The framed print collection will be shown and the system of loan will be gladly explained. Listings of the framed prints are available at all times.

If reference work interests any visitors, there will be a librarian present who will be happy to explain just how one goes about locating information, and will point out the areas where reference tools are located. If it has always been a mystery to anyone just how a librarian can locate a magazine article about a volcano, or an avalanche, or sea serpent, this is the time to ask just how it is done.

The Children's room may arrange a story hour if readers are interested. In the Ballardvale branch library, open specially for the day from 10 to 12 and 2-4 o'clock, there will be an opportunity to see the attractive room and its holdings.

Any group wishing a guided tour of the main library is asked to contact the library ahead of time and arrangements will be made.

This is a day for all Andover citizens to look about them at the many ways in which their town departments take pride in serving them.

Vacation Advice

This is an excellent time for the vacationist to decide just where and how those precious days or weeks are to be spent, and the library is all ready to give as much help as possible to all readers.

A display of books and helpful materials may be seen at the library and almost all items may be borrowed at once. Among the newer travel and informational helps are the following books:

Fielding's Travel Guide To Europe; Complete Guide To New England; Hepburn; New England Guide; Where To Go, What To See; Paris On The Seine, Ehrlich; The Amazing Mississippi, Price; The New England Image, Chamberlain; The Silent Traveler In London, Chiang; All The Best In Switzerland, Clark; Three Rivers Of France, White; South America, A to Z, Kane; The Silent Traveler In Paris, Chiang; Sweden, Bastide; Complete Book Of Water Sports, Liebers; Sunset Barbecue Cook Book, Sunset magazines; Face Of North America; the natural history of a continent, Farb; Creatures Of The Sea, Gray; Japan, Yefime; A Spanish Tapestry; town and country in Castile, Kenny; The Mademoiselle Career Girl's Guide To New York, Hammel; The State Parks; their meaning in American life, Tilden; Tunisia, from Carthage to tomorrow, Roy; Travels With Charley, Steinbeck; Europe On $5 A Day — a guide to inexpensive travel, Frommer (1963-64 edition) and New York On $5 A Day (with a supplement for

Branch Library Anniversary

This year marks the golden anniversary of the branch room of the Memorial Hall Library, opened in May, 1913 and in continuous service since that time to the people of the community.

Mrs. Martha MacCausland, in charge of the room, is planning to have an observation of the occasion on Wednesday, June 5, when the library is open specially for the Annual Open House, sponsored by the Town Employees' Association. Visitors to the room will be welcome from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and from 2-4 p.m. The library will be open the following day for its usual Thursday hours.

It is interesting to note that in the first eight months of use there were 4,016 books borrowed from the room. By the end of the year there were 600 books which belonged there, with small deposits from the main library. Twenty five years later the room had circulated 177,006 books.

The branch was established in the sunniest room of the town building, known as the "old schoolhouse." Thirty feet square, with eight windows, east, south and west, it made a bright, sunny spot after it was painted and white-washed. The hours for opening had to be increased after five months so that in addition to two afternoons a week the room was opened for an hour on two evenings.

Miss Martha Byington served as library assistant there for many years.

another point that all of the business administration ties in directly or indirectly, with educational matters.

It was the latter point that caused so much discussion.

Proponents of the new job claim Mr. Erickson doesn't have time enough to devote to educational matters — rather, they claim, he is burdened with too many trivial details of the system, as well as the important. They foresee the need for someone with both an educational and a business background to handle this portion of the work. And they were strong in their praise for Erickson's work, and said they want only to free him from business matters that intrude on education.

Opponents believe the superintendent should have what he recommended to the Committee Monday night — a head custodian to take care of summer maintenance and supervision of the custodians; plus a supervisor for the buses, who would set up routes and assign buses and drivers when necessary.

When Mr. Erickson recommended this solution, members Doherty and Davey moved and seconded that it be done. But by a 3-2 vote, action was "delayed" until next week, while job descriptions of the two positions are written. Then action can come on the basis of these documents.

Mr. Erickson suggested that the head custodian be full-time eventually, but for the moment could continue some of his present duties in the system. The bus supervisor would be part-time. The total cost for the two jobs, he said, would be less than that proposed for the supervisor.

And the point was also made that a general services supervisor, if appointed, would need to have a head custodian in any event.

Former Pike Pupils on Alumni Work

Friday, May 17, there gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bernardin a group of Pike School alumni, their wives and husbands. All in the group attended the school before it moved to its present location at 5 Porter when it was operating in the building now occupied by the Sacred Heart School.

Attending this first meeting of alumni from the early days of the school were Mr. and Mrs. James Egan III, Mr. and Mrs. James Dow Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Hadyn Daley, Mr. and Mrs. William Bride, Mr. and Mrs. George Redman, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bernardin, Fritz Osther, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds, Mrs. Richard Hornidge, and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Harding.

The Bernardins provided a pleasant social atmosphere for the meeting. The purpose of the gathering was to lay plans for the development of closer relations between all alumni and the school. Fritz Osther, the president of the school alumni organization, described some of the facts in the school's present development and introduced Mr. Harding, the school's present headmaster, to the "old timers". Sharing in the planning were Mrs. Bernardin, who is a graduate of the school, and Mrs. Richard Hornidge, the school's alumni adviser.

Planned Your Block Party? Don't Forget Entertainment

By Vivian Newill

Have you planned your neighborhood block party yet? Be sure to state your intentions to either the town manager or Board of Selectmen.

Last week we discussed the important matter of food.

The location of the block party is another factor to consider. Remember, the Fourth is usually hot. A grassy, shaded area is a good site to set up tables. The spot should also be convenient and easily accessible because folks have a lot of toting to do of lawn furniture, etc. in order to provide all the comforts of home.

Now for entertainment.

Those fortunate enough to have a volleyball and net are lucky. It is a game that has unlimited possibilities for entertaining a huge crowd. The net can be strung across the street and teams formed on each side. The more participating, the merrier.

Softball or baseball are old standbys. Silly "fun-games" such as sack races, etc. are good ones, too, but don't forget the small fry. If a pony is available, think how the children would love a ride.

The entertainment possibilities are limitless. Phonographs can provide good background music, get out the old guitar or mandolin, too. Even community singing is fun and how about dancing in the street, either to ballroom type music or square dance tapes, twist or whatever.

A patriotic theme is most appropriate - it seems patriotism is not stressed enough nowadays.

The children love decorating their bikes with red, white and blue streamers. How about prizes for the best?

Also, be sure to have everyone up and down the block display the stars and stripes. It really looks nice.

Last but not least, be sure to have suitable gifts or favors for the youngsters to take home as a remembrance of a happy day. And don't forget to pray for a sunny day.

Oops, almost forgot about paying for the party!

Collecting funds can be a touchy subject. An easy way to do this is to post a sign with rates and furnish envelopes for the reimbursement to be placed in. One group found that 50¢ for adults, 30¢ for children and 20¢ for tots under five covered expenses adequately. A little extra was collected from the sale of leftover condiments, paper goods, etc. Those with children paid extra for the gifts.

Your Block Party?

Get Entertainment

get out the old guitar or mouth organ, too. Even community singing is fun and how about dancing in the street, either to ballroom type music or square dance tapes, twist or whatever.

A patriotic theme is most appropriate - it seems patriotism is not stressed enough nowadays.

The children love decorating their bikes with red, white and blue streamers. How about prizes for the best?

Also, be sure to have everyone up and down the block display the stars and stripes. It really looks nice.

Last but not least, be sure to have suitable gifts or favors for the youngsters to take home as a remembrance of a happy day. And don't forget to pray for a sunny day.

Oops, almost forgot about paying for the party!

Collecting funds can be a touchy subject. An easy way to do this is to post a sign with rates and furnish envelopes for the reimbursement to be placed in. One group found that 50¢ for adults, 30¢ for children and 20¢ for tots under five covered expenses adequately. A little extra was collected from the sale of leftover condiments, paper goods, etc. Those with children paid extra for the gifts.

Contest For Booth Decorations

The Andover Board of Trade will conduct a contest for the best decorated booth during the third annual Sidewalk Bazaar and award $25 to the best judged booth. It was announced by Robert Phinney, chairman of the Retail Committee. Booths will be judged on the originality of their decorations that support the theme of the bazaar, "Old Fashioned Sidewalk Bazaar". The judges will also give credit to the costumes of the attendants.

Booths of the ABT members and professional booths will not be eligible to compete for the prize, Phinney stated. "We hope that this contest will encourage the participating organizations to sponsor a booth that will add color to the two-day carnival-like atmosphere of the Bazaar," Phinney said.

Organizations desiring to participate in this year's bazaar, which will be held June 21 and 22, are asked to request space and state the type of booth they wish to sponsor, in writing. Requests may be sent to Mr. Phinney or to the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce.

HEWITT RECEIVED SCHOOL TROPHY

"Silver Spurs" Here June 27

The REAA Rocketeers square dance graduates will present the colorful artistic dancing of "The Silver Spurs" June 27, at Andover Junior High School, for the benefit of a newly organized Square Dance Scholarship fund, and to familiarize all who are young at heart with the fun of folk dancing.

Those who attend the show will be given the opportunity of observing a group of wholesome and talented teenagers perform rollicking cowboy squares, authentic early American and English folk dances, vivid Spanish and Mexican fiesta dances, waltzes, the Tango, Samba and Rhumba as well as the Indian Hoop Dance and other specialty numbers.

Organized in 1947 by Edwin S. Henderson, consultant in Physical Education to the Spokane public schools, as a way to interest high school youngsters in the healthy, pleasurable activity provided by square and folk dancing, the Silver Spurs have become nationally known. During annual summer tours, they have entertained appreciative audiences throughout the United States. Every dance has its own significance and costumes valued at more than $30,000 lend color and charm to all of them.

At the conclusion of each program, the audience is invited to join in the fun by dancing a square or two with the friendly young members of the Silver Spurs. Paul Pratt will be caller June 27.

Tickets may be obtained from any Rocketeer.

Serving on the Committee handling details are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Scott of Chestnut St., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shepherd of Chandler rd., Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hatch of Sargent St., Mr. and Mrs. Hazen

Curtis of Mary Lou In., Mr. and Mrs. James Carter of Summer St., Mr. and Mrs. Willard Patterson of Upland rd. and Mr. and

While your money is making up its mind

A lot of money is wondering where to turn, these days.

So many things can happen. World affairs? Taxes? Rising or falling markets?

Well, why not secure peace of mind by putting your money for this period in the Lawrence Co-operative Bank?

Many people would rather have money in this area right now than in almost any other part of America, because money here is not subject to many of the risks that exist in many other places.

You don't even have to say how long you want to leave it. And the safety of your savings is assured by Lawrence Co-operative's ample assets and reserves, by its 75 years of conservative operation, and by that insurance in full under Massachusetts laws.
